INTRODUCTION.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE, like that of Oxford, possessed the privilege of proving wills and granting letters of administration to members of the University, their servants, and persons trading under the protection of the University, that is to say, who came under the head of "Scholars' servants."

On 11th May, 1544, the University made a statute for the due registration or matriculation of its members. Those who enjoyed the privileges of Scholars were to be sworn and to pay what they would (not being less than fourpence), according to their condition. The following was the oath of the Scholars' servants, and other privileged persons not "Scholars":

> "YOU SHALL SWEAR, that so long as you shall be in the privilege of a Scholar, you and your servants shall be obedient to the Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor of the University in all lawful and honest things as shall concern your person and degree, and keep all good ordinances, statutes and laudable customs of the University, which doth or shall concern likewise your person. ALSO, you shall not go about to break and infringe any privilege or liberty granted by the King's highness or his progenitors, or hereafter to be granted by the King's Majesty or his successors to this University, nor suffer none of your servants so to do, nor help, counsel nor maintain any man going about so to do, at any time hereafter while you live. SO HELP YOU GOD AND THE HOLY EVANGELISTS."

Nine days afterwards the Vice-Chancellor, Proctors, and Heads of Colleges interpreted the statute to mean that Scholars' servants who should be residing in their own houses as fathers of families, or should be lodgers, or should live in colleges, halls, or hostels, should be matriculated, but that the servants of servants need not be matriculated unless they wished it. (Cooper's Annals of Cambridge, vol. I, pp. 414–15.)

This privilege—and the abuse of it—of being a Scholars' servant, amenable only to the laws of the University and not to those of the Town, was the cause of many disputes between the Town and the University.

The wills of members of the University and Town proved between 1501 and 1765, and the inventories attached to them, have been removed from Cambridge to the Probate Office at Peterborough, and although the wills and administrations have been indexed, so that reference is easy, Dr. Palmer in the course of putting the inventories into order has discovered several of importance connected with Cambridge printers, stationers and binders hitherto unknown. Thus it comes about that in this work are printed as many as forty-seven wills and inventories, letters of administration, or inventories alone, of printers, stationers, and binders. As notes are attached to each, no attempt need be made in this Introduction to recapitulate the information thus given, but attention may be drawn to certain matters concerning the University Printers, and the information to be added to our present knowledge of the binders and the materials they worked with.

The inventories attached to the wills of Nicholas Pilgrim (1545), John Denys (1578), and Bennet Walker (1588) are of interest as showing what books were then on sale to members of the University. They help to fill the gap between the Day Book of John Dorne of Oxford—of which a fragment for 1520 exists, and has been edited by Mr. Madan (Oxford Historical Society, Collectanea, vol. I), with notes by Henry Bradshaw (1886)—and the earliest inventory of an Oxford bookseller, that of Nicholas Clifton, 1579 (Gibson's Oxford Wills, pp. 11–16). In the case of these inventories some attempt has been made to identify the books mentioned in them, but bibliographers will not need to be told how difficult and uncertain such identifications must be.

The University Printers appointed during the period covered by this book were: John Kingston (1577), who did not print at Cambridge, Thomas Thomas (1583), John Legate (1588), Cantrell Legge (1616), Thomas Buck (1625), Roger Daniel (1632), John Legate the younger (1650), and John Field (1655). John Hayes was appointed in 1669, but did not die until 1705, so he does not come into this work.

Until the appointment of Thomas Thomas nothing had been printed at Cambridge since the disappearance of John Siberch in 1522 or 1523.

From various sources we now know where the printers had their presses. Thomas and Legate printed in the Regent Walk, which then existed opposite the west end of Great St. Mary's church. Legge living on the Market Hill, near the "Rose Inn," no doubt printed there, or Leonard Greene in his complaint would have mentioned him along with Thomas and Legate as printing in the Regent Walk. Buck started at the "Angel," just the other side of the "Rose Inn," at the north-east corner of Market Hill, and very shortly afterwards moved to the "Augustin Friars," where Roger Daniel also printed. But John Field either built, or had built for him, new premises in Silver Street. A most interesting description by an American Judge of this printing press in 1689, during John Hayes's tenure of office in succession to John Field, is printed in the notes attached to John Field. At that time, instead of one press, there were as many as six.

Of these eight printers we have the wills and inventories (either or both) of Thomas, Legge, Buck, and Field. The inventory attached to the will of Thomas Thomas (the University Printer after the death of John Kingston, who did not print at Cambridge) is of special interest, for it gives us two more books to add to those already known as printed by him, the Terence and Plato's Menexius in Greek, of which no copies are known. The Terence suggests an enquiry as to its connection with the Terence printed a few years later by John Legate and sent to London for sale, but seized by the Stationers' Company. It is well known that a work by Whittaker, which Thomas was printing in his first year of appointment (1583), was seized along with his press, etc., by the Stationers' Company, but probably after the remonstrances made on his behalf the press was restored, for he printed six books and three folio fly-sheets the following year. At his death he had on hand copies of all books printed by him except the edition of Z. Ursinus, Doctrinae Christianae compendium, 1585 (he had the enlarged edition of 1587), and J. Carmichael, Grammaticae Latinae liber 2^us^, 1587, of which only one copy is known, that in the Bodleian Library. The "University Tables" (Catalogus Rectorum et Cancellariorum ?) may also comprise the Act Verses, of which copies exist in the Cambridge University Library, along with an almost complete collection of works printed by Thomas.

The two copies in folio of the Miscellanea of Zanchius, amongst the works printed by Thomas is a mistaken insertion, and should probably have come under the head of "In the shop," along with the books valued at £12 6*s.* 2*d.*, for it was printed at Neapoli Palatinorum (Neustadt-an-der-Hart, a town of France) 1572. Perhaps Thomas was intending to print something out of that volume, and that might account for the two copies being in the printing office. The works of Zanchius were in demand, and the Cambridge University Library possesses a copy of the second volume of Miscellanea printed "Neostadii Typis Nicolai Schrammii sumptibus Ioan. Bill Nortonian. Londinens. Bibliopol. 1608." 4°. (Sayle, No. 7761.)

Presumably Thomas sold other books than those of his own printing, for all books printed by him are valued under this head, and the inventory specially says how many are in the shop and how many in the garret (which served as the warehouse), stating also whether in quires or leather, copies in both states being in both the shop and the garret. So that the books in the shop valued at £12 16*s.* 2*d.* were not of his printing. He also bound books as he had "calfe skins, boards &c." in his possession (see Annals of the Cambridge University Library, by C. E. Sayle, in the Library, iii Series, vol. VI, p. 158).

The full details of his printing-room, with its one press, should be of great interest as showing what a printer at that period of time found necessary for his work, and for its contrast with the material necessary to the present official Printers to the University.

The slight inventory of Cantrell Legge's goods is important. Thomas's press with its furniture was valued at £3 6*s.* 8*d.*, his stock of paper £16 9*s.* 6*d.*, and he had 1,445 lbs. of letter valued at 3*d.* the lb., £21 18*s.*, with 1,254 lbs. of letter valued at 2*d.* the lb., £10 9*s.* Legge's press and furniture was valued at £4, his paper £13 14*s.*, and he had 1,000 lbs. weight of letter valued at 3*d.* per lb., £15; but the valuers had undervalued these items and a much larger sum was realized by their sale. The most interesting point is his having "130 Realms of Psalms £24, 4,000 Grammars £56, 3,000 Accidences £18, and 500 Lillie's Rules £3 10*s.*" The printing of Lillie's Grammar by Legge resulted in a boycott of his edition by the London stationers, who obtained an Order from the King to restrain the University Printer from the sale of his books, and seized upon others of them, according to the University's petition of complaint to the King at Royston, 16th December, 1621, "to the utter undoing of the poor printer." The King subsequently directed that the University Printer might continue to sell his Grammars without let or disturbance of any person whomsoever. But the King's grant became of little value in consequence of the leading London stationers combining not to buy these books, though sold at the cheapest price. Other booksellers were also, it was alleged, deterred from buying them through fear. To defeat this combination of printers, the University passed on the 25th of June, 1622, regulations:

1. That no booksellers or stationers in the University should, directly or indirectly, buy any books from, or sell any books to, Bill, Norton,

Barrett, and Knight, or any other Londoner who might join their society, nor should in any mode contract with them, unless license were first given under the hand of the Vicechancellor and major part of the Heads, under penalty of £10 for the first offence, £20 for the second offence, and for the third offence to be deprived of the privilege of the University, and interdicted from all trade and commerce with the scholars and members of the University for three months.

2. That every bookseller or stationer of Cambridge, under the like penalty, should keep a true catalogue of all the books which he should purchase in London or elsewhere, and should exhibit the names of those with whom or to whose use he had contracted, to the Vicechancellor four times yearly, namely at Christmas, Lady Day, Midsummer, and Michaelmas, or within the four following days.

4. That the right of printing all books and the copies of all books by the privilege of the University and hitherto printed or thereafter to be printed, after the death, resignation, or other cession, of any of the University printers, should not be transferred to his heirs, or assigns, but should be vested in him who should from time to time enjoy the printing privileges of the University, and that this condition should be expressed in every grant of the privilege of printing under the University seal.

5. That whatsoever author the University Printer should print, he should within one month bring the same to the University Library, decently and appropriately stitched and bound, under pain of four times the price.

6. That every bookseller, stationer, and printer, living within the limits of the University, within two days if he should be at home and in good health, or within two days after his return or convalescence, should take a solemn oath before the Vicechancellor faithfully to observe all the laws, privileges, statutes and decrees of the University, or on refusal should lose the privilege of the University.

7. That whosoever either then applied himself to learning in this University, or thereafter should so apply himself, or enjoyed or should enjoy any academic privilege or degree, who should desire any author, of whatsoever language, or any composition of his own, to be printed, wheresoever he should live in England, should offer the copy of the same to the printers of the University in the first place, or at least to the Vicechancellor, at a just price, and as much as other printers bona fide would offer should be given, according to the judgment of the Vicechancellor and the four senior doctors of the University, or the major part of them.
8. That every one who should take any degree, should on his admission promise faithfully to observe the next preceding article, and also if he became or were a schoolmaster, that he should use the books printed in the University which may be for the profit of his boys, and not suffer others than those printed in the University in his school, whilst the same books should be printed and sold here at a moderate and fair price by the royal authority. (Cooper's Annals III, 142–5.)

So the boycott continued, but the University could not successfully contend with the London stationers, and they on 29th November, 1623, obtained an Order from the Privy Council "that the University printers should not print Bibles, Grammars, Psalms, Psalters, Primers, or books of Common Law, that they should have but one press, and print no almanacks but such wherof the first copy should be brought to them." And by another Order, 10th December, "books of Common Prayer were forbidden to be printed by the University, and as to books whereof the first copy was brought to the University printer, he was to have the sole printing, as the London printers were to have of all books whereof the first copy was brought to them." (Cooper's Annals III, 161–2.)

There is no doubt that the worry and expense connected with these contests with the London stationers brought on the illness which caused Legge's death and the involved condition of his own affairs as shown in the administrator's accounts.

Thomas Buck succeeded Legge as University Printer, and is supposed to have purchased his press and materials. Through the complaint of Leonard Greene, one of Buck's partners, we know that Buck hired a room at the "Angel" as a printing office. This "Angel" Inn was next the "Rose" Inn on the Market Hill (and not on the site now occupied by the University Senate House as has been stated—this was the "New Angel"), only a few houses away from the house Cantrell Legge had occupied. Buck soon transferred the printing plant to the Augustine Friars (on ground now occupied by University lecture rooms), where Roger Daniel also printed when he leased the printing from Buck. Notes concerning Buck will be found at the end of his will, amongst which is included an eulogistic notice of him by Dr. Barrow, printed from a work to which attention was drawn by Dr. H. P. Stokes in his Esquire Bedells by an extract from the well-known Cole MSS.

John Field succeeded Buck, but predeceased him. He transferred the printing works to a new building erected in Silver Street, on ground leased from Queens' College, and the entry in the inventory "Lease of the House £200" may refer to this. The value of the printing materials, and probably stock as well, had considerably increased since the valuation of Cantrell Legge's goods. Possibly Field had more than the one press, which was all the University printers were allowed to have. Roger Daniel in 1634 had advocated the establishment of more than one printing house. On the death of Field the management of the Press underwent a great change, for the next Printer appointed (John Hayes) leased the printing on payment of £100 a year.

Three other persons—Robert Leete (1663), John Foakes (1664), and Thomas Isburne (1686) are styled printers in their wills, but they had no presses, and it is concluded that they were connected in some way with the University Printers of their time.

Although the present writer's Earlier Cambridge Stationers and Binders, etc., dealt with the bookbinders, there is still much to be discovered concerning their work. These wills and inventories help by giving more information.

Garrett Godfrey in 1539 left his "iij presses with a cuttynge knife" to his man Nicholas Pilgrim. Nicholas Pilgrim, who, it is surmised, was a relative of Garret Pilgrim the Oxford stationer, at his death in 1545 possessed "4 small and 4 bygg presses, a small planyng press, 2 sewing presses, a cuttyng knife" and other implements used in binding, including "a Roll to printe withall," and certain other tools. As no binding has been identified as Pilgrim's it would have been of importance to know what was the character of this Roll. On his death Peter Sheres was appointed one of the three Stationers, and he dying in 1569 was succeeded by his son John, whose inventory, dated 1581, mentions "a great presse, 2 cuttyng presses" and the necessary implements.

Nicholas Spierinck's business had probably passed to his son William, and this may account for the absence of any mention of his books or binding materials in his will.

John South (1553) had an old sewing press, a planing press, and "a printing press." This printing press may be a mis-naming of another press connected with binding, for he evidently had no type.

The items given in the inventory of John Denys, a Frenchman (1578), are of great interest, for nothing is known of him at present. He had "a great playning presse with a barre of wood, 2 plowe presses with iron pinnes to wind it, 2 plowes with old knyfe, 2 hand presses with rules to wynde, a great playne and a little with the irons to them, an alphabet of Roman letters, 2 printes for the cover of books (blocks?), 4 payer of compasses," and many other tools, including a "riglet for the back, a riglet of three for the side, a great corner flower, a littler corner flower deluced, a rose for the backe of the booke, a little pincke." Such a detailed list of tools and implements should be of great value, and it is hoped may lead to the identification of some of his bindings.

John Almond (1588) had only a small stock of trade, a press, plough, fire tools, hammer, and a marble stone, yet he had 234 copies of Almanacks with prognostications.

Other binders are mentioned, such as Robert Gee, who died 1681, but we have no details of their binding plant.

After these few preliminary remarks it only remains to express the hope that the printing of these Cambridge Wills and Inventories may be regarded as a fitting complement to those of Oxford and London, as edited by Strickland Gibson and H. R. Plomer, and issued by the Bibliographical Society in 1907 and 1903, and to note that all the inventories and some of the wills have been contributed by Dr. Palmer, whilst the notes, biographical and bibliographical, are by myself.

The notes will be found to give much fresh information supplementing the more detailed accounts in Mr. Bowes's Bibliographical Notes on the Cambridge University Printers (Cambridge Antiquarian Society, Communications, 1886), and I wish to acknowledge the constant use made of that work.

ABSTRACTS FROM THE WILLS AND TESTAMENTARY DOCUMENTS OF PRINTERS, BINDERS, AND STATIONERS OF CAMBRIDGE, FROM 1504 TO 1699.

PETRUS BREYNANS.

Stationer and Binder. (c. 1502–1504.) Lived in Great St. Mary's parish.

(Latin.) Undated (circa 1504).

To be buried in the churchyard of St. Mary the Great, or where his executors decide.

BEQUESTS: For the poor £20. To each of the four orders in Cambridge: the Franciscans, Dominicans, Carmelites, and Augustinians, 3^{s}/4^{d}. To children: Baldwin £12, John £6, Margarete £6, to be paid when of age. To wife, Katrine, his "hardware shopp" with its contents, and the household goods. To the building of Gt. St. Mary's church 20^{s}, and 30^{s} to the High Altar for tithes unpaid, and a "missale de melioribus que habeo ad deserviendum usui Ecclesie." To each of the Fellows of Corpus Christi College a Missale, or another book of equal value; and to Gunwelhall (now Gonville and Caius College) a Missale.[1] To his servant Joan 3^{s} 4^{d}, and to Master Henry Browne his best gown and a silver cup, Also money for thirty masses for his soul, and for priests to perform these masses for three and six months. To Executors and supervisor 20^{s} each for their labour.

EXECUTORS: His wife, Henry Browne, and Gerald Godfray.[2]

SUPERVISOR: John Rade [Rede].

(1.) These gifts cannot now be traced; both College libraries possess copies with no indication as to how they were obtained.

(2.) See his will, 1539.

That Peter Breynans was a binder, and "stacioner," is a conclusion drawn from his having so many Missals, and from the choice given to the Fellows of Corpus Christi College to have another book of equal value instead of a Missal. If it were not for these bequests there would be nothing to connect him with the one printed reference to a binder of that name (Gray's Stationers, pp. 26–28). He may probably be identified with the "Pet^{r} Barneys" who along with "Garreit Stacioner" and others signs the "indenture of covenant" between the University and Town, 1503, by which "Stacioners, Lymners, Parchment-makers, Boke-bynders, & others, shall be reputed and taken as Common Ministers and Servants of the Universitie .... and shall have & enjoye lyke privilege as a Scolers Servant of the Universitie shall have & enjoie" (Cooper's Annals I, pp. 262, 270). His wife was buried 1526.

GARRETT GODFREY.

Stationer and binder. (c. 1503–1539.) Lived in Great St. Mary's parish. Appointed one of the three University Stationers, 1534.

Dated 12th September (21 Hen. VIII). Proved 11th October, 1539.

To be buried in the Church of St. Mary the Great.

BEQUESTS: To "cosyn Sygar Nycholson xxx^{li} of good and lawful money to be paid in three years, x^{li} each year, out of which pay to my brother Martyne's children, James, Katharine, & Elizabeth xx^{s} each," and to Nicholas Pilgrim "my servante xl^{s}." Also to Nicholas Pilgrim "my fox furryd gown and iij pressys with a cuttynge knife." To the "Sr bachelar of the College x^{s}." Residue of goods to Agnes his wife.

EXECUTRIX: His wife.

WITNESSES: D. Redmayne, Mr. Seton, Sir Nycholas Herman, with others.

Garrett Godfrey, one of the three earliest University Stationers or Printers, officially appointed by Grace of the University before Michaelmas, 1534. As a binder he is well known. He is mentioned by Erasmus in a letter from Rochester to Henry Bullock at Queens' College, August, 1516, as "my old host, Garrett the bookseller," referring no doubt to the writer's residence in Cambridge during 1511–1514. In 1511 "Garrett the Cambridge bookseller" carried to London the manuscript of Erasmus' Icaromenippus from the author to Ammonius (Erasmus' Epistles, trans. Nichols, II, 26, 49, 53). His "servant" Nicholas Pilgrim, to whom Godfrey left the three presses with a cutting knife, his fox-furred gown, etc., evidently succeeded him in the business, but did not long enjoy it, as he died in 1545 (see p. 10).

The will tells us that Godfrey and Segar Nicholson were cousins. Nicholson was born at Maestricht, and was educated at Gonville Hall (now Gonville and Caius College) during 1520–23, at which time John Siberch, the first Cambridge printer, was printing at the "King's Arms," a house on the side of the entrance leading to that Hall, afterwards acquired by the College, and the gates of Humility and Virtue erected one at each end (see view in Loggan's Cantabrigia Depicta). The Gate of Humility was moved from this position in the nineteenth century. A binder in 1530, if an entry in Searle's History of Queens' College, "cegarto bibliopolle," really refers to him. Prosecuted and punished in 1531 for holding Protestant opinions, yet in 1534 he was appointed one of the University Stationers along with Godfrey and N. Spierinck. In 1544 he was living as a binder in the High (now Trinity) Street. In 1548–49 appointed one of the University "appreciatores." Afterwards (1551–52) we meet with him as a brewer "olim bibliopola huius achademie" in Magdalene Street, and again in 1554 "a beer brewer dwelling at Magdalen-bridg," supporting an untried prisoner in the Castle (Cooper's Annals II, 89). At the burning of John Hullier on Jesus Green in 1556, it is recorded that "Seager gave him certain gunpowder, but little to no purpose, for he was dead before it took fire" (ibid. II, 104). In the same year "Zeygar Nicholson berebruer" was one of the sureties of Steven Walles to Trinity College for building Trinity College Chapel (Willis and Clark's Cambridge II, 565). He moved into St. Edward's parish, and was ordained deacon and priest by the Bishop of London on 17th and 21st of December, 1564, being then sixty-four years of age, and appointed Rector of Doddington, where he died before 12th June, 1567, when his successor was appointed. We cannot yet identify any book as being bound by him, though the lease of his house in the High Street clearly describes him as a bookbinder. For particulars of Godfrey and Nicholson, see also Gray's Stationers, pp. 28–36, 62–64; Bowes' Printers, p. 289.

Nothing is known of this man, unless he be the Richard Lichfield, Churchwarden of Great St. Mary's Church, 1513–14 and 1517, an Elector several times during 1517–36, and who gave "ij. vj^{d} towards seating the church" in 1518. In 1515 he is called "Treasurer of the Borough." None of these entries refer to him as a stationer, and it is only the heading of this Inventory which tells us his business.

The Lichfields were an old Cambridge family, and it is not unreasonable to suggest a relationship with the Richard Lichfield, barber of Trinity College, to whom Thomas Nash dedicated his Haue with you to Saffron-Walden, or Gabriel Harvey's Hunt is Up, 1596. The reply to this, said by the D.N.B. to be by Dr. Harvey, was entitled The Trimming of Thomas Nashe, Gentleman, by the high-tituled patron Don Richardo de Medico Campo,[1] Barber Chirurgeon to Trinity Coledge, in Cambridge, Lond., for Philip Scarlet, 1597. A barber-surgeon named Richard Lichfield practised in Cambridge, and died there in 1630.

PETER BRIGHT.

Stationer. (c. 1515–1545.) Lived in St. Sepulchre's parish.

Proved 9th February, 1545.

To be buried in the churchyard of St. Sepulchre's.

BEQUESTS: To the high Altar "for tythes neglygently forgotton ii^{s}." To the "reparation of the Church ij^{s}." To Church of Holywell, Beds. vj^{s} viij^{d}, and to the poor, to be distributed at the discretion of Robert Hanskome the elder. xx^{d}. To "the poor boy Sadylbowe x^{s}." (1.) John Mere. See Cooper's Athenae Cantabrigienses I, p. 174, and C.A.S. Proc., N.S., Vol. X, p. 186.

(2.) Richard Noke appointed one of the University Stationers 1540 (see Gray's Stationers, p. 66). In 1545-6 he was paying a rent of xxj^{s} viij^{d} for a tenement in St. Sepulchre's parish.

(3.) This inventory affords such a good picture of the household of a well-to-do tradesman of the date that it has been thought well to give it in full, although it has little to do with Bright's business as a stationer.

(4.) The totals of this and succeeding additions, though mostly incorrect, are printed as in the original documents.

[University Inventories, Bundle X.]

[Total about £50.]

This inventory discovers the house of a well-to-do tradesman. The hall was evidently the chief living room. It was hung with green say tapestry; on the sideboard were coloured wooden trenchers and dozens of pewter pots; over the high mantelpiece were a picture of the Virgin Mary and escutcheons of arms. There were six furnished bedrooms, one of which was over the gateway leading into the courtyard. From the quantity of wine in his cellar it looks as if he had given up bookselling and started a wine shop.

Peter Bright's will and the inventory give no indication of his business. He certainly was a stationer, living in St. Sepulchre's parish in 1527, when the lease of a garden there was granted him by St. John's College. In 1515–16 is an entry in the Grace Book B^{2} (p. 44), "Recepta .... pro appellacione Johannis lentun contra petrum bryght xij^{d}." See Gray's Stationers, pp. 64–5.

NICHOLAS PILGRIM.

Stationer and Binder. Lived in Great St. Mary's parish. With Garret Godfrey, c. 152$\frac{3}{4}$—1539; alone 1539–1545.

[end of inventory.]

[at Peterborough.]

At the back of the end of last sheet is "Nycholas pylgrym" and no date.

Nicholas Pilgrim appears with Garrett Godfrey on the Subsidy Roll of 1523–24 as "Nicholas ducheman in wages xx^{s} . . . xij^{d}," and on the death of Godfrey succeeded him in the business, being left his three presses with a cutting knife, his fox furred gown, as well as an annuity of 40*s.* for three years. He was appointed one of the three University Stationers, in the place of Godfrey, "pro termino suæ vitæ," 16th October, 1539. After his death Peter Sheres[1] was appointed in his place 5th February, $154\frac{5}{6}$, and may have succeeded him in the business.

It is curious that no relations are mentioned in the order of administration, yet there is a will of Margaret Pylgrym, of the parish of Great St. Mary, widow, dated 28th January, and proved 25th February, 1547 (printed after this note). We do not know if Nicholas Pilgrim was related to Garret Pilgrim, bookseller and bookbinder of Oxford, who died 1536–7, although both were dutchmen. Garret Pilgrim's widow was named Margaret. This raises the question, was the Margaret Pilgrim, widow, who died in Cambridge, January or February, 1547 (see p. 30), the widow of Garret Pilgrim of Oxford, and came to Cambridge on the death of Nicholas, a relative?

(1) See Gray's Stationers, p. 68, also the will of his son, or brother, John, 1581.

Pilgrim's goods were valued at about £34. The books, 717 in number (216 bound, 501 unbound), were valued at £26 11*s.* 6*d.* (bound £18 15*s.* 9*d.*, unbound £7 15*s.* 9*d.*); paper 6*s.* 8*d.*; instruments and tools £2 8*s.* 4*d.*; household goods £3 13*s.* 10*d.*; apparel 19*s.* 10*d.*

Marks on the margin of the inventory show that 160 of the books were sold to various persons: f (10) ha (1) h (5) p (1) purchased bound books only, f (95) s (29) ff (24) purchased books both bound and unbound. It would have been interesting to know to whom these initials belonged, but it can be safely conjectured that the three who purchased bound and unbound books must have been stationers and binders, and that we have here Nicholas[1] or his son William Spierinck, John Sheres,[2] and possibly John South or Sowght,[3] the four other purchasers being private persons.

No specimen of Pilgrim's binding has yet been identified; probably the bindings were plain, although a "roll to print withall x^{d}" is mentioned. It would have been interesting to know what this one roll was, as apparently Godfrey's rolls were not in Pilgrim's possession.

MARGARET PILGRIM.

Of Great St. Mary's parish, widow.

Dated 28th January, 1547. Proved 25th February, 1547.

BEQUESTS: Everything to John Ings brother in law.

WITNESSES: Roof Thorneborowe, Jone Helye.

See note to Nicholas Pilgrim (p. 29) where it is suggested that she might be the widow of Garret Pilgrim, bookseller and binder of Oxford, who died 1536–7, and whose will is printed in S. Gibson's Oxford Stationers' Wills, p. 7.

NICHOLAS SPIERINCK.

Binder and Stationer. (c. 1505-6—1545-6.) Lived in Great St. Mary's parish, probably in the High Street, certainly close to the church.

Dated 20th August, 1545. Proved 27th January, 1545.

To be buried in Church of Great St. Mary. For burial and to poor folk x^{li}. Wife Anne xx^{li} marks so that she deliver to Executor "all suche parcells of stuffe that she hathe of mine as apperythe by my booke also I will that she have all soche goods and detts as were hers and shulde grow to her before I maryd her."

BEQUESTS: To grandson Nycholas S. the house of the Cross Keys,[1] and if he dye without issue, to Wm S., his father; also "my best purse with soche thyngs as be in hytt." "To Kateryn S. a purse and gyrdle, with contents, and the corall beads." "To Anes S., a silver pair of beads, with purse and its contents." "To his master Bruar[2] xx^{s} in money." "To S^{t} Peters parish xx^{s} in money." Residue of goods to son Wm Spyrynke.

EXECUTOR: Wm. Spyrynke.[3]

SUPERVISOR: Thomas Wendy, Doctor of Physik, "to whom xl^{s}."

WITNESSES: Wm. Richardson, John Selerer, and — Tylman, sen^{r}.

(1.) A brewery in Magdalene Street, still existing. (2.) At the Cross Keys.
(3.) Son, and successor in the business.

Nicholas Spierinck with Garrett Godfrey and Segar Nicholson were the three first official "stacioners" appointed by the University in 1534. His bindings are well known. There is little to add to the account printed in Gray's Stationers, pp. 43–53. But we have an earlier reference to him as a binder amongst the expenses of the Proctor of the University, 1515–16 (Grace Book B[2], p. 47): "Nycholao stacionario pro ligatura libri iniuste abstracti a bibliotheca tantum restitutus universitati. ij[s] viij[d]." The first reference to him in Cambridge is in the year 1505–6. If he had been in the town in 1503 he would have appeared along with Godfrey and Breynans in the list of privileged persons of that year. As there is no mention of shop or goods in his will, it is evident that they had been passed over to his son William, who with Gybkin and Mere administered the goods, etc., of Nicholas Pilgrim in 1545. William Spierinck is known as a stationer, living in Great St. Mary's parish, and being churchwarden at the time of his father's death. He married Elizabeth Cheke, sister of Sir John Cheke.

It would have been interesting if we could discover to whom had descended the rolls used on his bindings, especially one previously used by John Siberch.

JOHN SCARLETT (or SKARLETT).

Stationer. (c. 1550–1551.) Lived in the little house at the West end of Great St. Mary's Church.

Dated 14th July, 1551. Proved 1st August, 1551.

BEQUESTS: "To the poor men's box at loomst[r] and at Cambridge xx[d] each." To brother Phylypp,[1] and sister Margerye, each x[li]. To brother Thomas xl[s]. To sister Xtian iiij[li]. To father and mother £5 and "the debts of Steven Levys w[ch] is dew unto me for books. House in myll street, leomstere, in which they dwell, and at their decease, to my lawful son & heir, and in default of them to sister Margery."

(1.) See administration of his goods, 1582.

Remainder to "wife Elizabeth." To Peter Sheres[1] my second cote. To father-in-law, Thomas Ball, "my best gowne." "To Peter Ventrys my saddle and brydle." "To Rowland my prentyse his double stipend at his year ende."

EXECUTRIX: Wife.

SUPERVISORS: John Xprist, Thomas Ventrys, Garbrande hark.[2]

WITNESSES: Peter Ventrys, Peter Sheres, Rich. Scanderell.

John Scarlett came from Leominster to the little house at the west end of Great St. Mary's church in 1550, and died the following year. His brother Philip died (see the administration) 1582, a William Scarlett, probably a son of Philip, died (see his will) 1617. Several Scarletts appear as booksellers, including Philip and Peter, whose names appear on works dated 1634 and 1640 respectively.

JOHN SOWGHT (or SOUTH).

Stationer and binder. (c. 1550–1—1553.) Lived in Great St. Mary's parish.

22nd March, 1553.

ADMINISTRATION: To Katherine, widow of John Southe statyoner who entered into a bond with Edward Ball scrivener, and William Waters tailor, of 80^{li}, to pay his debts and to pay to her daughters, Mary, Elizabeth, and Alice, 15^{li} each on their marriage.

1559. This bond was delivered to "Jo Baxter,[3] bedell," who had married Katherine, and a new bond was entered into by him.

John South, or Sowght, must be the "John Seth" in Gray's Cambridge Stationers, p. 68, where entries are given of payments made to him

(1550–51) for "a communion book, 3^{s} 4^{d}, a salter and a homyly 3^{s} 4^{d} and ij salters more 3^{s} 4^{d}." "John Sothe" was an elector at the Easter meeting of 1553 of the parishioners of Great St. Mary's. His widow married John Baxter, as shown by the entry above, dated 1559

John Denys, Frenchman, stationer and bookbinder, who died of the plague, as well as his children and servants, is unknown to us. A "John Denys from the dominion of the King of Spain" (4 Feb., 1562), appears in the Denizations and Naturalizations of Aliens in England, edited by W. Page. Others of the same name appear, but none connected with the book trade. He was not in Cambridge in 1556, when a commission for inquiring as to heresies, heretical books, etc., was held 27th November to 30th January, 1556, and the "four stacioners"—Richard Noke, Peter Sheres, Watson, and Baxter are mentioned. Most probably he had been in the town some few years before his death, and it seems probable that he may have been the binder of the book of verses made at the visit of Queen Elizabeth to the University in 1564, and presented to Her Majesty.

(6.) Richard Bird; see Cooper's Athenae Cantabrigiensis II, 521; III, 72.

(7.) Is this the John Tracy, proctor for the widow, mentioned in the heading of this "accompte."

It was "bound in parchment coverynge, gylt with flouris of gold at the four corners, knit with green ribband string." (Cooper's Annals, II, 198.) The list of books is of interest for comparison with that of Nicholas Pilgrim. The particulars of his binding instruments give information which may help towards the identification of his bindings. It is seen that by the end of the year 1578 the widow had married again.

JOHN SHERES.

Stationer and Binder. (c. 1571–1581.) Lived in Great St. Mary's parish.

Proved 13th July, 1581.

John Sheres probably succeeded to the business of his father, Peter Sheres, who died August, 1569, and first appears in Great St. Mary's parish as an Elector 1571, afterwards being appointed Churchwarden. With Bradshaw he valued the books in the inventory of John Denys, 1578.

(1) See his will, 1588.

A James Sheres, bookbinder in London, came to London from Antwerp to his brother about 1535. He lived in St. Paul's Churchyard until 1571. (Duff's Century of English Book Trade; E. J. Worman's Alien Members of the Book-trade.

Arber's Stationers' Registers (II, 476) gives this entry: "On 1 Feb. 1574 the Corporation of London permitted James Sheres straunger and stacioner to be given work within the city by Thomas Chapman, the 'late restraynt' notwithstanding, provided that freemen have sufficient of the same." Here is a James Sheres, stationer, being given work in 1574 by Thomas Chapman, draper, in London, and in 1581 we have John Sheres, a Cambridge stationer, leaving his best ring to his "brother" William Chapman. Sheres mentions his sister Elizabeth as married and living in London, and presumably she was the wife of Thomas or William Chapman. The coincidence of the Sheres and Chapmans coming together in this way tends towards the conclusion that some relationship existed between the Sheres of London and Cambridge.

PHILIP SCARLET.

Stationer and Binder. (c. 1563–4—1582.) Lived in Great St. Mary's parish.

5th October, 1582. Letters of Administration granted to his widow Elizabeth. She exhibited an inventory of goods worth £3 18*s.* 5*d.*, and was bound with Peter Scarlet and John Matthew in a sum of £10 to pay debts of deceased. But the administrators' account showed a deficit of £370 13*s.* 4*d.* [Neither inventory nor account now extant.]

[University Wills, Vol. II, p. 87.]

Philip Scarlett, brother of John Scarlett who died 1551, and is mentioned in his will (p. 32). He was a Churchwarden of Great St. Mary's 1568–9 and 1569–70. Peter Scarlett is first mentioned in the Churchwardens' accounts for 1583. A Peter Scarlett's name appears on the title-page of Ramus, Dialectica, 1640. Another Philip Scarlett was living c. 1605–1635, and his name appears on the title-page of Russell's Famous pitcht battles of Lypsich and Lutzen, 1634, being the brother Philip mentioned in William Scarlett's will 1617. Whilst a Churchwarden of Great St. Mary's in 1612 he was, along with his brother Churchwarden, James Robson, committed by the Vice-Chancellor to the custody of the Town gaoler because they would not suffer the church bell to be rung on the preceding Easter Tuesday for Mr. Waterhouse of Trinity College. They were, however, released the same day on the interference of their fellow parishioners. [Cooper's Annals, IV. 4.]

(1.) Printed 1587 or 1588. The dedication is dated September, 1587.

Thomas Thomas was on the 3rd May, 1583 (not 1584 as has been stated), appointed University Printer. No printing had been done in Cambridge since the mysterious disappearance of John Siberch in 1523, and although three stationers, or printers, had been allowed to be appointed to the University by Letters patent in 1534, no printing was done. During his lifetime Thomas gave books to the library of King's College (G. Chawner's Incunabula, No. 156), including a XIIIth century MS. Psalterium (M. R. James's MSS. in the Library, No. 35). His history is fully given in R. Bowes's University Printers, p. 292. Previous to his appointment he witnessed and was appointed one of the overseers of John Sheres' will (1581), wherein is mentioned Marie Francke. Thomas gives "40*s.* to his wife's sister Widow Francke," presumably the same person. As University Printer he was succeeded by John Legate, appointed 2nd November, 1588, but we have not his will. Legate was succeeded by Cantrell Legge, whose will is given 1625.

The "Mr. Browne of London," in whose hands were books and debts belonging to Thomas, is not identified, unless he is the "Thomas Browne of St. Anthonies," London, Schoolmaster, mentioned in the will.

The stock of books is interesting as showing that he had copies of all works printed by himself, except J. Carmichael, Grammatica Latina, 1587, and includes two at present unknown.

Little is known of Bennet Walker, but by the mention of "M^{r} Bishop" in the will it is presumed that he is the "Benat Walker, son of John Walker, late of London, deceased," who was apprenticed to George Bishop, citizen and stationer of London, for twelve years from 25th March, 1566 (Arber I, 290). There is no entry of his being made free of the Stationers' Company.

The reference to the boy Sampson is not clear. Perhaps he belonged to the Sampsons of Fen Stanton mentioned in the will. No Sampson was apprenticed to George Bishop, but a John Sampson, son of Thomas Sampson, labourer, was apprenticed to John Williams for eleven years from 29th September, 1576, and, on the death of Williams, transferred to William Lobley, 8th April, 1584 (Arber II, 69, 123). A John Sampson was a stationer at Cambridge in 1610, when he was paid "for bookes to write actes ordres & customes into xxvj^{s}" (Cooper's Annals III, 42).

The entry of "Boothe timber" shows that he had a stall or shop in the celebrated Sturbridge fair.

Michael Woolfe, John Warren } appraisers

Exhibited by Michael Porter son.

John Porter, son of Thomas Porter of Haslingfield, was apprenticed to John Cuthbert, citizen and stationer of London [and at Cambridge c. 1568–1597], 25th December, 1568, for eight years. On 20th November, (1.) Living in one of the little houses at West entrance of Great St. Mary's Church, the other occupied by Leonard Greene.

1581, Samuel Beck, son of Christopher Beck, late citizen and draper of London, deceased, was apprenticed to Porter for eight years. From 1587 to 1606 thirteen works are entered in the Stationers' Registers to him, and in connection with Richard Watkins, T. Gubbyn, R. Bourne, T. Man, Ralph Jackson, S. Machan, Matthew Cooke, and Leonard Greene. Other works with his name are known—one in connection with John Legate.

He lived in St. Mary's Passage, opposite the South door of Great St. Mary's Church, certainly from 1589, and held various offices connected with the parish, being Churchwarden 1596–7 and 1597–8. His name appears in a list of privileged persons, c. 1592–4, and in 1593 he joined with John Legate, the University printer, in prosecuting John Tidder for selling books in the Cambridge Market. In 1599 he was paid "xv^{s} vj^{d} for a partchement book for chrisnengs and buryalls & marriages" for Great St. Mary's parish.

From this will we learn that Leonard Greene married Porter's daughter, and that before his death Porter had passed his business over to Leonard Greene, who was to pay him £30 a year for a period of seven years "for the use of the stock of books." It seems in addition to this Greene was to pay £400 to Porter's four children, and failing to do this the books were to be sold when Greene's agreement expired, and the proceeds divided amongst the said children.

Leonard Greene was admitted a Freeman of the Stationers' Company 14th April, 1606, and shortly afterwards, 13th May, was entered in the Register, Hall's Meditations, divine and moral, for J. Porter and L. Greene. In 1607 Walsall's Sermon was printed for Porter and Greene, so probably Greene's admittance as Freeman of the Stationers' Company coincided with his connection with Porter's business.

The son Edmund is no doubt the Edmund Porter who was made free of the Stationers' Company 10th February, 161$\frac{4}{5}$, and lived in Cambridge. He appears as a stationer in the list of privileged persons, 1624, and also as paying the church rate in Great St. Mary's parish from 1616.

The John Porter junior, bookseller, 1634–6, in the Dictionary of Printers, Booksellers, etc., 1537–1640, is more likely to be the son of Edmund than of John Porter, senior, as there suggested.

THOMAS BRADSHAW.

Stationer. (c. 1578—1610.) Lived at the West end of Great St. Mary's Church, later in St. Sepulchre's parish.

Dated 20th July, 1610. Proved 20th August, 1610.

House in St. Sepulchre's parish to be sold by his wife to pay Legacies.

BEQUESTS: To sons Phillipe and Thomas £60 each to be paid the 29th Sept. 1611. Edward £60. to be paid £20 on the 15th of June next, & £40 on 24th of June 1612. William £60 to be paid at his full age of 25 years. To daughters: Alice Smith £10 to be paid within one year, and to her six children: William, Roger, Marie, Joanne, Alice & Elizabeth £30 to be equally divided & to be delivered to their father Samuel Smith to their uses within six years, and if the said Samuel Smith be not then living, then to the mother. £10 to be paid within one year. To grandson Thomas son of Lawrence Bradshaw (son) deceased, 20 nobles to be paid at his full age of 24 years. To cousin Shute daughter of Mary Shute my sister £2 to be paid when 20 years of age. To sister Shute 40s to make her a ring. To sister Jugge 10s to make her a gyniall. To "sister Smith 10s." To the poor of St Sepulchre's parish 10s, and to the poor people of every other parish in Cambridge 5s each parish. To "the poor prisoners in the Castle & in the Tolbots" 5s each, and "to the poor people in the hostell house 5s." Residue of all goods and chattels to wife Alice, sole executrix.

WITNESSES: George Haynes, Luke Curtise, John Smith, notary public.

Thomas Bradshaw was apprenticed to Humphry Toye, 28th March, 1562, for eight years, and was made free of the Stationers' Company 6th July, 1570. An apprentice, Andrew Wythes, was transferred to him and newly bound 10th April, 1581, and another, William Knowley, was transferred to him from T. Chase in 1583. In 1589 the Stationers' Company received of him, 26th May, "that which was due for a prentise that should have been putt over, 2*s.* 6*d.* And for a fine for that the apprentise served with Master Chard contrary to order ij^{s} vj^{d}." On the 18th April, 1584, he was granted a lease of a piece of ground at the west end of Great St. Mary's Church "that he shall builde a handsome shop." .... "and that the said Thomas Bradshawe shall neither sell shewe or binde any books in the said shop during the lease"—one shop already existed, occupied by Cuthbert the stationer, may be the reason for this stipulation. This lease was cancelled and a new one under altered conditions granted, the existing shop was pulled down and two shops erected, one on each side of the west entrance, affixed to the church walls (see Gray's Shops at West End of Great St. Mary's Church). This lease was granted by Trinity College, and as Bradshaw had inserted the framework in the church wall, stopping the light of the two windows, he agreed that he and his successors would pay 5*s.* yearly to the parish. This he paid for 1587 and 1588, when he was succeeded by John Legate, who procured a new lease, 6th October, 1589.

Bradshaw had previously been living in the parish, for he was an overseer of the highways in 1581. Later, in 1593, when he had evidently left the parish, he gave 20*s.* towards the repairing or building of the steeple, 28th April, 1593. His name appears in a list of privileged persons c. 1592–4, and also for 1600 and 1601 in the Lay Subsidies.

Previously, in 1578, we find him valuing the books of John Denys (see p. 36).

His son Robert was admitted a freeman of the Stationers' Company, per patrimonium, 11th August, 1599, and may be the Robert Bradshaw apprenticed to Richard Watkins, citizen and stationer of London, for seven years from 19th January, 1596. Nothing further is known, and presumably he died before his father made his will in 1610.

WILLIAM SCARLETT.

For other Scarletts, stationers, see John Scarlett, 1557, and Philip Scarlett, 1582: and the Philip Scarlett mentioned in the note to the last-mentioned is no doubt the "brother Phillipp" (who had six children) to help the son William in his business.

William Scarlett was with John Sheres, the Cambridge stationer, who left him £2 in his will of 1581. He was in business c. 1592–1594, as his name is in a list of privileged persons of that date; and a few years afterwards went to Edinburgh and arranged with Robert Waldegrave to print the edition of Sidney's Arcadia which was published in 1599 (H. R. Plomer, in the Library, 1900, pp. 195–205). He was then living in Great St. Mary's parish, in the house now No. 1, Trinity Street, occupied by Bowes & Bowes, between whom and William Scarlett a succession of booksellers have had their business there. Scarlett and John Crane occupied the house and paid the church rate jointly from $160\frac{7}{8}$. After Scarlett's death Crane paid it for 1619, and then Henry Moody, the stationer and binder (see 1637). In 1606 the parish paid Scarlett "viij^{s} for a service book," and he was Churchwarden 1610–11. On the 27th March, 1609, St. John's College leased to him the "Burbolte in S^{t} Andrews parish for 40 years at a rent of 53*s.* 4*d.*" This old inn was destroyed only a few years ago. Dr. John Cowell in his will, proved 25th October, 1611, left William Scarlett 40*s*: several Scarletts are also mentioned, and the appointed executors are Peter Scarlett (apothecary) and his son-in-law John Crane.

Cantrell Legge, who succeeded John Legate as University Printer, was a son of Edward Legge of Burcham, Norfolk, and was apprenticed to Legate 24th June, 1589, for eight years, was made free of the Stationers' Company 11th December, 1599, and appointed University Printer 5th June, 1606. Books are entered to him in the Stationers' Registers, mostly in connection with other booksellers, one being Leonard Greene of Cambridge. In 1620 Legge had to contend with the Stationers' Company, and he petitioned the Lords in Council on a prosecution by the Company for printing Lilly's Grammar, and in the two following years journeys were undertaken by him and University representatives to London, and to the King at Royston and Newmarket, concerning the matter, of which an echo remains in the widow's account. On the 29th November, 1623, the Privy Council made an order that the University printers should not print Grammars, Psalms, Psalters, Primers, or books of Common Law; that they should have but one press, and print no almanacks but such whereof the first copy should be brought to them. And by another order, 10th December, Books of Common Prayer were forbidden to be printed by the University. Yet in 1625 he had in his possession 130 reams of Psalms, valued £24, 4,000 Grammars, £56, 300 Accidences, £18, 500 Lillie's Rules, £3 10*s*. [See also the Introduction to this work.]

Thomas and Legate printed in the Regent Walk, but Legge occupied a house on the Market Hill and most probably printed there. This house was next the Rose Inn, occupied by John Woolfe and his son Philip on one side, and a house occupied by Materius Peapes on the other, which would be quite close to what is now called Rose Crescent. To both of these neighbours he owed money. No contents of the shop is given. What had become of his books? It looks as if they had been disposed of before his death, possibly to Leonard Greene. The contents of the printing room is given, and it seems quite likely that his press and material were purchased by Thomas Buck, his successor as University Printer, who transferred them to a room in the Angel Inn, a few doors away on the other side of the Rose Inn.

Legge's widow continued for some time to occupy the same house, and on 1st June, 1629, transferred to James Boler her interest in sixteen books of her late husband.

[University Wills, Vol. 3, p. 175.]

Henry Wray lived in Great St. Mary's parish, opposite the church, paying the church rate from 1607–8 to 1626–7. He appears in a list of privileged persons dated 1624, as also does Richard Ireland, his son-in-law, who lived in the same house along with Wray. Though Wray calls himself "stationer," no mention of books is in his will. His daughter, who had married Ireland, was dead, and that may be the reason why Ireland's two children are to be brought up by Wray's widow, for Ireland married a second time, after the death of his father-in-law (see 1654). To his two grandchildren, John and Elizabeth Ireland, he bequeathed property, with a proviso that in case of their death unmarried under twenty-one, or without issue, certain houses in Walls' Lane and Trinity parish should remain and be for an Hospital to help to maintain poor widowers and widows, of equal number and equal portions; that his freeholds and copyholds should be for the maintenance of the Hospital; that a leasehold estate of Bene't College should be sold, and that with the produce and other his personal estate lands should be bought for the maintenance of the Hospital. In 1635, the grandchildren being dead, certain Commissioners of Charitable Uses established the Hospital for four widowers and four widows, inhabitants of Trinity parish (Cooper's Annals III, 202) which, after being rebuilt, exists at the present day in King Street.

[University Inventories, Bundle 17.]

Leonard Greene was admitted freeman of the Stationers' Company 14th April, 1606. Shortly afterwards he married a daughter of John Porter, the Cambridge stationer, and had a son John when his father-in-law died (see 1608). At that time he had Porter's business and was paying him £30 a year for a period of seven years. This could not have been for the stock, as he had also to pay £400 to Porter's children after their father's death, or, failing to do so, the stock was to be sold when Greene's seven years' agreement was ended. Apparently Greene continued the business and lived in the same house (opposite the South door of Great St. Mary's church), yet from 1612 to 1617 he paid the church rate for one of the two shops attached to the West end of the church—the South shop as shown in a view of the church in Loggan's Cantabrigia Depicta—the other shop on the North side being occupied for the same period of time by William Williams, a bookbinder. This was before his appointment as one of the University Printers, which was made 31st October, 1625, when he was paying the church rate for the house Porter formerly occupied, leased from Bene't College, the lease being valued at £100 in the inventories of both Porter and Greene.

During 1622 to 1625 Cantrell Legge was the University Printer (see 1625), and on 16th December after Legge's death a new patent was sealed appointing Greene, in conjunction with Thomas and James Buck, as University Printers. The output of the University Press during 1622 to 1625 was very small indeed, and bore the name of Cantrell Legge as Printer. Only one work is known bearing Greene's name along with T. and J. Buck: Paolo Sarpi, Interdicti Veneti historia, 1626. It was in 1622 that an order was made that any member of the University should, before printing a composition of his own, first offer the same to the Press, and that all members taking a degree should first promise that, should they become schoolmasters, they would not allow any other books for use in their schools than those printed in the University, so long as such could be obtained at a moderate and fair price. [See Introduction.] Greene had no printing press, and when Buck commenced printing, it is known from Greene's complaint, that he had taken a new printing-office in his own name, the Angel, without consulting him. It is most probable that Buck had purchased Cantrell Legge's printing press and materials.

Greene entered several books in the Registers of the Stationers' Company, but mostly before his appointment as one of the University Printers in 1622. Only four occur afterwards, in 1628, 1629, and 1630. His first entry of 13th May, 1606, was in connection with John Porter, others with Cantrell Legge, and several London booksellers. He was churchwarden of Great St. Mary's 1613–14, and held various offices in connection with the work of the parish. In St. John's College Library is a book presented by him "amoris arrha collegio D^{uj} Johannis." (C. E. Sayle's Bibliotheca Loquitur, p. 15). His widow continued for a time after her husband's death to occupy the same house.

All known of Robert Sanders is that he lived in Great St. Mary's parish from 1620–21 until his death, paying the church rate, his wife continuing after his death. His name is not in the list of privileged persons of 1624.

HENRY MOODY.

Stationer and Binder. (c. 1575–1637.) Lived later at what is now No. 1, Trinity Street, 1620–1637.

[University Inventories, Bundle 17.]

Henry Moody was a binder as well as a stationer, for he had "29 dozen & 11 skins of calves skins £15, one great press, and other tooles £2." He first appears in the 1620–1 church rate list of Great St. Mary's parish, occupying what had been John Crane's house, previously occupied by William Scarlett the stationer (see his will, 1617). He was twice churchwarden and held other offices connected with the parish. He was witness to the notice of discommoning four chandlers posted on the door of the church, 20th–23rd July, 1629. (Cooper's Annals III, 215.) A "Goodman Moody" mentioned in 1612 and 1616 may be the same person, as also the Henry Moody christened at St. Michael's church 1st May, 1575.

Thomas Moody, probably the "Thomas Moody stacioner my kinsman" (see 1661), mentioned in the will, also paid the church rate from 1627–8.

The inventory of the goods of his widow Helen, 23rd May, 1648, contains nothing concerning the business.

Richard Ireland married a daughter of Henry Wray the Cambridge stationer, who died before Wray's will was made in 1628, wherein Ireland's children were left to the care of their grandmother and not to that of their father. Ireland married again 9th December, 1628, at St. Edward's church, Frances Londringe, who with two daughters survived him. He is in the 1624 list of privileged persons, and living in the parish of Great St. Mary's, paid the church rate from 1624–5, being churchwarden 1635–6, during which time, in March, 1636, he with six other parishioners signed a petition to the Judge of Assize for the County on the unequal rating of the town, by which their parish was overcharged. (Cooper's Annals III, 274.)

He had Wray's business opposite to Great St. Mary's church. His name appears on two editions of Thomas Randolph's Jealous Lovers, 1634 and 1640. He gave a book to St. John's College Library (S. 8. 39), with inscription: "Ex dono M^ri^ Ireland Bibliopolæ amoris ergo Coll^o^ Johannensi." (C. E. Sayle, Bibliotheca Loquitur, p. 18.)

The account of the administratrix, attached to the inventory, throws light upon Ireland's transactions with London publishers. The large amount paid to Richard Royston seems to suggest that he acted as Royston's agent at Cambridge, especially as Royston is supposed to have had a shop at Oxford. Notices of Royston, Cornelius Bee, Octavian Pullan, Andrew and John Crooke are given in Plomer's Booksellers and Printers, as well as the following, except Henry Sutch, whose name is new. To the notices of Samuel Thompson and Lodovick Lloyd can be added earlier information. The Michael Sparke is no doubt the bookseller of that name who died 29th December, 1653. In reference to John Crooke it may be mentioned that a son, Bankes Crooke, after being educated at Eton, was admitted sizar at St. John's College, Cambridge, 13th May, 1674, aged sixteen. Troylus Atkinson and John Mileson are two contemporary Cambridge stationers, near neighbours. The will of Troylus Atkinson is given under date 1675.

Thomas Moody, a "kinsman" of Henry Moody (see his will, 1637), whose son proved the will. Thomas was evidently a bookseller in a small way, as his stock was only valued at £10. He lived in the High Street, next door to John Milleson (mentioned in the note to Richard Ireland's will, 1654), and paid church rate in Great St. Mary's parish from 1627–8.

ROBERT LEETE.

A Robert Leete took up his freedom of the Stationers' Company 6th August, 1622. On 28th August, 1640, he entered in their register Drexelius, Forerunner of Eternity or Messenger of Death. This work is not identified, but Drexelius, School of Patience, was printed with the imprint: "Cambridge: Printed by Roger Daniel, Printer to the University, 1640." Leete lived in Great St. Mary's parish and paid church rate from 1627, but was apparently living in Jesus Lane when he made his will in 1663. Robert Leete senior, of Trinity Parish, is amongst the Town subscribers to the "Free and Voluntary gifte to his Majesty," 1661, subscribing 5*s.*, as also a Robert Leete of St. Andrew's parish for 2*s.* 6*d.* He is not known as a printer, and it seems most likely that he was connected with the University Printing Press of his time. The will shows that he owned "three boothes" in the great Sturbridge fair. His wife Elizabeth died in 1669, but her will contains nothing concerning any business.

JONATHAN PINDAR.

Stationer. (c. 1663.)

"Memorandum that on the 23rd of March 1663 Jonathan Pindar of Cambridge, in the County of Cambridge, stationer, being sick in body but of a perfect mind and memory, having a mind to make his last will and testament nuncupative, did declare the same in these words or words to this effect following in the presence of us whose names are subscribed.

"I do give to Eliza Pindar my eldest daughter five pounds, to my daughter Frances Pindar twenty pounds, and for my funeral I give five pounds, and the remainder of my goods I give to Frances Pindar my daughter."

"John Pindar. Edward Pindar."

Proved before Jacob Fleetwood S.T.P. by Frances Pindar, 4th April, 1663.

[University Wills, Vol. II, p. 59.]

Little is known of this Jonathan Pindar, who died 1663. Jonathan Pindar was one of the appraisers of Richard Ireland's goods, 1654. A Jonathan Pindar paid church rate in Great St. Mary's parish from 1620–1, and is in the 1624 list of privileged persons. Thomas Ingrey, in his will proved 9th January, 1661, left £25 to Charles and Elizabeth Pindar, children of "my son-in-law" Jonathan Pindar, when 26 years of age, and in case of their death to "Mary now wife of the said Jonathan Pindar," to whom the remainder of his goods were bequeathed.

Another Jonathan Pindar was appointed University Printer in 1686.

Thomas Williams married Elizabeth, daughter of Anthony Nicholson, stationer (see his will 1667), and was living at the "Six Bells" in St. Edward's parish in 1663, when he witnessed his father-in-law's will. He was probably a relative of William Williams, bookbinder, who lived in one of the two shops attached to the West end of Great St. Mary's church, 1612–17, and mentioned as a privileged person 1624, whilst Leonard Greene occupied the other one. A William Williams, stationer, also living in Great St. Mary's parish, died 1716. By his will, dated 5th August, 1713, he left all his goods and estates to his wife Cecilia, and after her death to his son Thomas.

Like Robert Leete, printer, whose will John Foakes witnessed in 1663, it is most probable that Foakes was also connected with the University Printer's press. He lived in Gt. St. Mary's parish at the latter end of his life, as he speaks of having lately bought and purchased the house in Great St. Mary's parish in which he was dwelling when he made his will. He appears amongst the Town subscribers to the Free and Voluntary Gift to His Majesty, 1661, as giving ten shillings, and is described as of Trinity parish. A "John Foaks bookseller" appears on the list of the Hearth Tax of 1666 as having five hearths.

ANTHONY NICHOLSON THE ELDER.

Stationer.

Dated 13th October, 1663. Proved 17th April, 1667.

BEQUESTS: To wife, Margaret, house and land in Stow sid Quy for the term of her natural life only. Two tenements in S^{t} Edward's parish, held by lease of King's College & another house in the same parish held by lease of S^{t} Bennet's College for and during her life. If she marries again these bequests to be void, and then to have house & land in Meldreth according to a surrender formerly made by A. N. To her all plate, goods and chattels, household stuff &c to dispose of at her will and pleasure. To daughter Margaret Pearson after death of his wife or her marriage, the two houses held by lease from Kings College, to her heirs and assignes for ever. To son William & his heirs, house & land in Stow sid Quy after the death or marriage of his mother. If he dies without heirs, then to Anthony my son, Elizabeth Williams and Margaret Pearson my daughters & their heirs, to be equally divided. To daughter Elizabeth Williams, her dwelling in that part of the house (the "Six Bells") she now dwells in, for life, paying to her mother 20*s.* yearly. To Anthony Nicholson[1] his dwelling in that part of the house (the "Six Bells") wherein he now dwells for life. After decease of Eliz. Williams & Anthony Nicholson, Margaret Pearson & Wm. Nicholson to enjoy and receive the profits equally. Anthony to have an equal share with them should he outlive his sister Elizabeth, after his death the house to remain with Margaret Pearson and William Nicholson & their heirs. If Anthony outlive both, the said house to be his & his heirs. To son Robert, stacioner of Cambridge 12*d.* of lawful money to be paid within a week. "Having a bond of Robert Nicholson for payment of £100 in case he dye without heirs by Mary his wife, if it becomes due, to be equally divided amongst A N's children. Probably the Anthony Nicholson christened 6th August, 1601, in St. Michael's church, and who paid church rate in Great St. Mary's parish from 1624–5. He evidently retired from business some time before his death. His name appears on N. Culverwell's Spiritual Opticks, printed by Thomas Buck, "and are to be sold by Anthony Nicholson," 1651; and on Marci Antonini Imperatoris de rebus suis libri XII, studio T. Gatakeri, 1652, also printed by Buck. His son Robert may have succeeded him. He is mentioned as having given a bond of £100 to his father, and his having the business may explain why his father only left him 12*d.* in his will. Robert Nicholson published a Latin edition of the Book of Ecclesiastes, 1662, and Alderman Samuel Newton in his Diary enters under 1687, "11 Sept. Sunday. Sarah Nicholson daughter of Robert Nicholson of Cambridge stationer marryed at Trinity College Chappell by Dr Wolfran Stubb unto Robert Dawney of the Citty of Norwich worsted weaver son of Anne Keeling of Norwich widdow." With others he drew up the inventory of the goods of John Field, University Printer, 25th February, 1668; John Johnson, 1679; Robert Gee, 1681; William Graves, 1686, and E. Beeching, 1689. Another son, Anthony, a bookbinder, died February, 1680, and the inventory of his goods is given under that date.

[University Inventories, Bundle 13.]

John Field was appointed University Printer 12th October, 1655, and immediately built a new printing office in Silver Street, on ground leased from Queens' College, now occupied by the Master's Lodge of St. Catharine's College, where it remained until the beginning of the XIXth century, when the present buildings were commenced on the other side of Silver Street.

(1.) Son of Anthony Nicholson, died 1667.

(2.) Probably Robert Browne, bookbinder, whose will is printed under 1681.

Field took up his freedom in the Stationers' Company 4th February, 1635, commencing business in London, and was appointed with Edward Husbands as Printer to the Parliament 25th January, 1649. He continued his London press at least for a time after his appointment at Cambridge. He printed many editions of the Bible, some of which are noted for the number and variety of misprints, which called forth some pamphlets on the subject, and also on their excessive price.

According to the Hearth Tax of 1666 he had seven hearths, "3 added by new building since Lady day 1661."

He died soon after 15th August, 1668, when he dated his will, for on the 17th of that month Charles II wrote to the Vice-Chancellor "desiring that a printer be not yet appointed in succession to the late John Field, whose estate is considerably engaged in the service of the press." The new University Printer was not appointed until 14th October, 1669, when John Hayes was appointed under new conditions, being leased the printing on payment of £100 a year.

For a view of the University Press as it was on 28th June, 1689, we are indebted to the Diary of an American Judge, Samuel Sewell, wherein he writes: "By it [Katherine Hall], the Printing Room, which is about 60 feet long and 20 feet broad. Six Presses. Had my cousin Hull and my name printed there. Paper windows, and a pleasant Garden along one side between Katherine Hall and that. Had there a Print of the Combinations."—(Walford's Antiquarian, VIII, p. 133.)

Of the people mentioned in his will, George Sawbridge, stationer, and James Flesher or Fletcher, printer, are well known. The entries of Edmund Paxton and James Crump, stationers, give us a much later date of their existence than at present recorded. All these persons lived in London.

THOMAS BUCK.

One of the University Printers, 1625—1653 (?) Press at the "Angel," Market Hill, 1625; at Augustine Friars, c. 1632—1653.

Dated 21st September, 1667. Proved 4th May, 1670.

To Cousin Samuel Vye, and kinswoman Jane Gobye, £10 each if living with me at my decease, and to his servants dwelling with him at death £1 each. To sister Anne Metcalfe £50 and £10 to each of her children. To godson Thomas Ganning £5. To brother John Buck[1] £100. To nephew Samuel Buck[2] of Gray's Inn £20 and to his wife Ann the silver cup and salver given me by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

"Rest and residue of all estate, copyhold lands, tenements and hereditaments, goods and chattells to nephew Thomas Buck[2] of Westwick, Cambs, for payment of debts, legacies, &c., in performance of the will, and make him executor."

SUPERVISOR: Nephew Samuel Buck.

WITNESSES: Thomas Copinger, Grace Love, Anne Love.

Proved in the P.C. of Gilbert Archbishop of Canterbury by Thomas Buck, 4th May, 1670, and proved before Jacob Duport S.T.P., by Thomas Buck 6th June, 1670.

Thomas Buck, the eldest son of Thomas Buck of Oakley, Essex, entered Jesus College in 1609; B.A. 1612–13, and after being made Fellow of St. Catharine's College, proceeded M.A. in 1616. He was appointed University Printer 13th July, 1625, on the death of Cantrell Legge. After his appointment he took into partnership his brother John and Leonard Greene, their appointment being dated 16th December, 1625. On the death of Greene another brother, Francis Buck, was appointed in his place 27th October, 1630, and on his resignation, 21st July, 1632, Roger Daniel was appointed 24th July, 1632, and continued in partnership until 1st June, 1650, when his patent was cancelled. Buck most probably purchased the press and materials of Cantrell Legge, his predecessor. He removed the printing works to the "Angel," next the Rose Inn on the Market Hill. Later on he transferred the works to the "Augustine Friars," for on 24th July, 1632, in the article of agreement between Buck

(1.) In partnership with his brother 16th December, 1625. Died 22nd October, 1680, aged 83.

(2.) Sons of brother Francis Buck.

and Roger Daniell, the latter agreed to take the "Capitall messuage and tenement called the Augustine Fryars wherein the said Thomas Buck now dwelleth together with the printyng house and all other houses yard orchards closes wayes & all other easements & commodities thereunto belonging" for six years, at the rate of £190 a year paid quarterly. Only one printing office was allowed to be in Cambridge, and Roger Daniel in a complaint against Buck, 14th March, 1634, represented to the University the advantage that would arise from the establishment of more than one printing house. He subscribed £2 10*s.* towards the Scotch Loan, 16th April, 1645. In the "Hearth Tax" of 1666 Thomas Buck is owner of a house in which are seventeen hearths, two added by new building. Buck is said to have resigned about 1653; at all events John Field (see 1668) was appointed his successor 12th October, 1655. He was also Esquire Bedell from 1624 until his death, which occurred at the Augustine Friars 4th March, 1669–70, He was buried in the north chancel of St. Edward's church 7th March following.

During his term of office the output of the University Press increased year by year, and many important works were there printed. Special mention may be made of the editions of the Bible, which first appeared with the Cambridge imprint during his time, George Herbert's The Temple, works by Phineas and Giles Fletcher, Joseph Mede, Thomas Heywood, Thomas Randolph, Thomas Fuller, and others, also Obsequies to the memorie of Mr. Edward King, 1638, which contained John Milton's Lycidas.

Many copies exist of the Bibles and George Herbert's Temple, bound in morocco, with beautiful designs worked in gilt on the sides and backs, the work of some Cambridge binder, attributed to one in connection with Buck's establishment. From the Memoirs of Nicholas Ferrar it is known that a bookbinder's daughter from Cambridge taught book-binding to the family at Little Gidding, and there is a great similarity between the ornaments used there and those used on Cambridge books of this period.

Thomas Buck was one of the executors of Henry Lucas for the establishment of the Lucasian Professorship of Mathematics in the University. Dr. Isaac Barrow was appointed the first Professor in 1664, and was succeeded by Sir Isaac Newton in 1669. In Dr. Barrow's Prefatory Oration, delivered 14th May, 1664, he gives an eulogy of Thomas Buck, which is printed in his Mathematicae Lectiones, 1683, of which a translation by J. Kirby was published in 1734. As this is lost to bibliographers in such a work, an extract is here printed:

"THOMAS BUCK is perfectly known to every one of you from the honourable Place which he has sustained among you for so many Years, being sufficiently recommended by his Virtues, and highly to be reverenced for his excellent Merits towards you: The very same whose august Appearance and Venerable Dignity of Countenance is daily seen with your Eyes, whose most courteous Civility you always perceive, and whose active, trusty, and fortunate Endeavours in manageing your most important Affairs, vindicating your Honour and promoting your Interest, you have so often experienced. A Man endowed in no mean Degree in all Parts of Good Literature, who yields the Preheminence to none in Prudence and Faithfulness (Things approved and demonstrated in him, after a most remarkable Manner) and leaves most, I had almost said all, Mortals a long Space behind him in a laudable Industry. It would be difficult, nay altogether impossible for me to express what Labours he has undergone, what Troubles he has endured, how much Pains he has taken for your Sakes, or that my Diligence in saying should come up to his Diligence in doing. I was a Witness, I say a Witness as far as Admiration permitted, how much he provided for your Honour, how serviceable he was to your Interest, while he pushed forward your Business of Printing at the Expence of his own Health and Substance, the Praise of which will endure to the most distant Posterity imprinted on shining Characters, and consecrated to Eternity with the sacred Writings themselves, whose Value and Excellence he has in some sort advanced. But while I am speaking of this, I cannot observe without great Astonishment, a Man grown up in Years, and in a bad State of Health, to have been able if he was willing, or willing if he was able, to use such Vigilance over the Affairs of others, as perhaps none else, even in the Prime of his Strength and Vigour, would have used over his own. So great an Ardour inflamed him of meriting well of you, such a Desire of finishing the Great Work he had begun, that the Strength of his Body & Vigour of his Mind, seemed to encrease with his Years and the nearer he approached to the End of his Life the more vigorously he seemed to be carried. But why do I commemorate his Diligence in this Performance, rather than mention the unwearied Study wherewith he undertook it, and his great Benevolence shewn towards you? For indeed you owe the first Fruits of this huge Benefit, in Part to him: our great Benefactor being excited by his Admonition, persuaded by his Advice, and drawn by his Exhortation, both to institute this Mathematical Profession, and to endow and adorn your Library with a most choice Treasure of Books. For is not he to be accounted the Author of a Benefit who hath gained and as it were given you the Benefactor himself, who hath as well profited for you of another Person's Wealth, as out of his own Wisdom, his own Good-Will; and who hath derived upon your Grounds the overflowing Streams of another's Munificence? Without whom indeed it had not been, it could not be to Day that I could congratulate you upon the access of such a Help to your Studies, such an Ornament to the University, such an Example to the Age: Here my Tongue falters, my Invention fails, and my Mind ceases to furnish me with Words in any wise suitable to so vast a Benefit, the Greatness of which is easier to be conceived than expressed. I will therefore forbear attempting so insuperable a Difficulty, only give me leave to declare this one thing, that the last Gentleman's remarkable kindness towards me has merited a far greater Testimony of Gratitude."

JOHN MILLESON.

Stationer. (c. 1627—1670.) Lived over against Great St. Mary's Church.

Dated 4th September, 1670. Proved 8th November, 1670.

"Rest of goods & chattels to Mary my wife, executrix."

Proved before John Breton, S.T.P., by Mary Milleson relict, 8 Nov. 1670.

[University Wills, Vol. IV, p. 113.]

(1.) See his will, 1654.

John Milleson lived over against Great St. Mary's church, near the University Street or Regent Walk. These houses were demolished in the eighteenth century to make way for what is now the lawn in front of the University Library. His name appears on the title-page of A Protestant's Account of His Orthodox Holding in Matters of Religion, printed by Roger Daniel, 1642. In the Inventory attached to Richard Ireland's will, 1684, £5 was paid to Milleson upon bond. A John Milleson was paying the church rate in Great St. Mary's parish from 1627–8. Amongst the University subscribers to the Free and Voluntary Gift to his Majesty, 1661, is "John Milleson, stationer, of Gt St Marys £2," and according to the Hearth Tax of 1666 he had four hearths.

TROYLUS ATKINSON.

EXECUTORS: Sons William and John. SUPERVISORS: Aldermen Crabb and Newton, and Frohocke.

WITNESSES: John Humphry, Joseph Finch, Wm. Waterson, jun^{r}.

Proved in the P.C. of Gilbert, Archbishop of Canterbury, 22 Nov. 1675.

[University Wills, Vol. IV, p. 240.]

Troylus Atkinson first appears paying the Church Rate in Great St. Mary's parish 1626. The executors of Richard Ireland (1654) paid him £23. His will leads us to think he had a fondness for acquiring property. The "Nag's Head" and the "Turkey Cock" are mentioned. The leasehold premises held of the Master and Scholars of Christ's College is no doubt the "Brazen George," as we see from the MS. Books of Accounts kept by Joseph Mead, B.D., of Christ's College, 1614–33 (by Dr. John Peile, Cambridge Antiquarian Society's Proceedings, Vol. XIII, 253): "The sick man was removed to 'Raper's' or 'G. Pindar's'—college servants, I suspect, of some sort, as 'Troylus' certainly was, though he is dignified with the title of 'M^r^ Atkinson' when he receives rent for rooms in the Brazen George, the old inn near where the Post-office now is, unstatutably used by the College to accommodate the overflowing number of pupils in those days." In Certain Disorders in Cambridge to be considered at my visitation, sent to Archbishop Laud 23rd September, 1636, is: "Hard by this House [Christ's College] there is a Town Inn (they call it the Brazen George) wherein many of their Schollers live, lodge and study, and yet the Statutes of ye Universitie require that none lodge out of ye Colledge where no Governour or Tutor can looke after their Pupills as they ought." (Cooper's Annals III, 283.)

On 20th July, 1645, he contributed £5 to the Scotch Loan; and subscribed £3 to the Free and Voluntary Gift to his Majesty, 1661.

Atkinson died 6th June, 1675. Alderman Samuel Newton enters in his Diary (ed. J. E. Foster, p. 74): "Sunday about noone died M^r^ Troylus Atkinson, bookseller, the bell of Gt St Maryes began to ring for him about 3 of the clock after prayers ended." Newton and Alderman Crabb had 25*s.* apiece to buy mourning rings.

The son, William Atkinson, died 1694 (see his will, p. 128).

Incidentally, mention is made of Thomas Dawson, bookbinder, living in buildings attached to the "Nag's Head." Nothing is known of him except that his will, dated 1708, exists at Peterborough. But a Thomas

Robert Gee, bookbinder, is also mentioned. The inventory of his goods, dated 1681, is printed in this work.

WILLIAM MORDEN.

Bookseller. (c. 1650—$167\frac{8}{9}$.) Lived in Great St. Mary's, and afterwards in St. Michael's parish.

Dated 4th March, 1678. Proved 12th March, $167\frac{8}{9}$.

BEQUESTS: To son Charles[1] all books bound and in quires, both in Cambridge and London, and all debts. Freehold tenement in which he lived in the parish of St. Michael's, with tenement adjoining now in occupation of John Pindar, also stables in use of John Dennis, lately purchased of Thos. Pryor. Lease of P. & S. of King's of tenements, houses &c in parish of S^{t} Edward's, now occupied by Abraham Atkinson and others. Lands and tenements in Exning, Suffolk. And £500 in lawful money. To son John.[2] Linnen and plate, chest, bed, bedstead, curtains, valence, wrought chairs and stools. Lands, tenements, &c in Chesterton and Stretham. To son Charles, the rest of household stuff, and paper whatsoever in shop or warehouse. To sister Margaret Townesend of Stretham, use or interest of £20 during life, after decease to Churchwardens of Stretham to purchase lands, the profits on the feast day of St Thomas the Apostle to be distributed to the poor of Stretham. £18 to churchwardens of Gt St Mary's for poor in almshouses adjoining the church-yard, the profits to be distributed on S^{t} Thomas's day, the parishioners to add 40*s* to the amount, which they had from me for a fine upon electing me churchwarden lately. If not, the bequest to be void.[3]

(1.) Died February, $169\frac{8}{9}$. (2.) Died May, 1683.

(3.) Jackenett's Almshouses, removed to new building in King Street, 1789, still existing.

To servant Martha Price £20. £20 to be laid out in rings for thirty friends. To brother Andrew Hart and Susanna his wife £5 apiece. To poor of St. Michael's, and Chesterton parishes 40*s.* each; Trinity, St. Andrew's, St. Giles', and St. Peter's, 20*s.* each. Remainder to John Morden, executor.

SUPERVISOR: Andrew Hart, brother.

Proved in London 12th March, $167\frac{8}{9}$, at Cambridge January, 1679.

[University Wills, Vol. IV, p. 187.]

A Thomas Morden, stationer, is in the 1624 list of privileged persons, and may be the Thomas Morden, son of John Morden of Gisborne, co. York, "joynour deceased," apprenticed to Christopher Heckford 6th September, 1602, for seven years, and, on Heckford's death, transferred to Richard Tommes. He took up his freedom of the Stationers' Company 3rd October, 1609.

William Morden lived in St. Michael's parish, in premises lately purchased before his death, and in the will of William Wills, vintner, proved 29th July, 1667, he is mentioned as living in a tenement of his. He certainly lived for a time in Great St. Mary's parish (1650–1). He was one of the executors to the will of Thomas Ingrey, proved 9th January, 1661, and 20*s.* was left to him. As a bookseller his name appeared on many works from 1655 to 1678, including the first and other editions of Ray's Proverbs, works of Henry More, and John Smith's Discourses.

He left his business to his son Charles, whose name is on the title-page of R. Sheringham's King's Supremacy asserted, printed for Jonas Hart and Charles Morden of Cambridge, 1682, and Beaufrons, 1684. This Jonas Hart was no doubt a relative, as Andrew Hart married a sister of William Morden. Charles was buried 28th February, $168\frac{8}{9}$, and the other son, John, was buried 27th May, 1683. He subscribed £4 towards the Free and Voluntary Gift to his Majesty, 1661, being the largest amount given by a bookseller—Troylus Atkinson gave £3 which was the next in amount.

(1.) Died shortly afterwards. Her goods valued £4 6*s.* 6*d.* by John Nicholson and Jonathan Pinder, 20th September, 1687.

Little is known of this Robert Browne, binder. He is most likely the Robert Browne, one of the valuers of several inventories printed in this work: Anthony Nicholson, 1667, John Field, 1668, John Johnson, 1679, and Anthony Nicholson, 1680. The three valuers of Johnson's goods received five shillings for their work. A Thomas Browne was living 1631–35 in one of the houses attached to the West end of Great St. Mary's church, and in an account of the more special disorders in the University forwarded to Archbishop Laud, 23rd September, 1636, it is stated of the church that the "west windows are half blinded up with a Cobler's and a bookbinder's shop" (Cooper's Annals III, 281; Gray's Shops at West End of Great St. Mary's Church).

MAGDALEN GRAVES, widow.

Dated 9th October, 1691. Proved 1st March, 1693.

BEQUESTS: To Son John Graves of London £30 to be paid within one year. A debt of £5 & all other debts forgiven. To Son Thomas. £5 to be paid within one year. To grandson John, son of John G. £5 to be paid within one year. To Susanna, wife of Thomas Marshall of Cambridge, 20*s*. to be paid within one year. To Poor of Gt. St. Mary's. 20*s*. To sons William & Gowin, booksellers of Cambridge. All the rest of goods and chattels (debts, legacies, funeral expenses being first paid). To be executors. [University Wills, Vol. IV, p. 351.]

William Graves lived in the Regent Walk, opposite Great St. Mary's church. He first paid church rate in 1631, and married Magdalen Tomlinson at St. Edward's church, 6th April, 1640. His name appears on the title-pages of two works, 1642 and 1653 (Bowes' Catalogue, 75, 99). He is amongst the Town subscribers for £1 towards the Free and Voluntary Gift to his Majesty, 1661. According to the Hearth Tax of 1666 he had five hearths. He apparently gave up his business to his son William some time before his death, which occurred two years after the dating of his will, wherein he describes himself as "being infirm and crasy in body." His widow died 1693, and her will is printed after that of her husband. Therein are mentioned two sons as booksellers, Gowin and William Graves (see his will, 1695).

Are the two sons, Thomas and John, the London booksellers whose names appear on title-pages: Thomas 1683 and 1685, John 1681–1715 (Gray's Index to Hazlitt)?

Exhibited by widow Elizabeth. [University Inventories, Bundle 3.]

Nothing is known of Edmund Beeching, or Beechinoe, except that he married Elizabeth Tillman, 22nd February, 1655, in St. Michael's church. He resided in that parish until his death, before which time nine of his children were christened (one being named Hezekiah, another John Epiphanius) and four of them buried. There is no entry of the christening of his eldest son Edmund, but an Edward was christened 23rd November, 1656. Neither is there an entry concerning his second son, James. Of Elizabeth Buck, the daughter, there is an entry of the marriage of George Buck, of Barnsley, Yorkshire, and Elizabeth Beechinore,

11th June, 1676. No Elizabeth appears amongst the children christened. It may be that the marriage of 1655 was a second marriage, for there is an entry, 24th November, 1651, of the christening of "John Bechinoe sone of Edmund Bechinoe."

To Mr Gowen Graves for cataloging books for sale	2li	0s	9d

Mrs Mary Graves widow of deceased having a gold watch valued at £8 & 9 guineas valued at 30s apiece, in her hands & being about leaving the town, this accomptant as by law bound, demanded the said watch & guineas & by consent they applied to the Vice Chancellor & she owned that she had the watch & guineas, but alleged that she had laid out upon her husbands funeral 21li 10s, viz to Mr Wilson for gold rings 11li 19s 4d, to Richardson for gloves 7li 16s, to Mrs Alpha for gloves 4li 12s 0d, for his coffin £4, for 12 weeks housekeeping at request of creditors at 15s a week, total 35/17/4, but however for peace & quietness sake, she offered to remit the said 35li 17s & all manner of claim thereto, in case she might enjoy the watch & guineas, the watch being her husbands gift to her & the only thing she had to remember him by, this accountant thinking the proposal very fayre and advantage to the creditors accepted the same, being beneficial to the creditors to the amount of £14 . 7 . 4.

W^m^ Tindale administrator.

March 15^th^ $17\frac{1}{12}$. [Administrators' Accounts, Bundle 4.]

Son of William Graves, who died 1686, having then his father's business, living in the same house. His name appears on the title-pages of several books, certainly from 1680, and during his father's lifetime was called William Graves jun. His will was made immediately after his father's death. The curious bequest to the Master, Fellows, and Scholars of Clare College, in the event of his wife not having issue, did not take place, for he was bankrupt (as his wife says) for twelve weeks before his death, and the administrator after selling the books and everything else, first paid a dividend of 17*s.* in the pound to the debtors, and afterwards 1*s.* 2*d.* in the pound more—surely a satisfactory result. His brother, Gowin Graves, was paid £2 0*s.* 9*d.* for cataloguing the books for sale, and appears among the creditors.

The administrator's account shows how the wife of a bankrupt was treated at this time, and we find her pathetically pleading to keep a gold watch her husband had given her, "and the only thing she had to remember him by," against which she is willing and allowed to forego £35 17*s.* 4*d.* laid out upon expenses connected with her husband's last days and death. A transaction "beneficial to the creditors to the amount of £14 7*s.* 4*d.*"
